
JOURNAL OF LITERACY AND TECHNOLOGY

An International Online Academic Journal

Call for Papers

WWW.LITERACYANDTECHNOLOGY.ORG

For 15 years, the Journal of Literacy and Technology has provided a free, accessible scholarly forum for all interested parties to explore and debate issues pertinent to novel literacies and digital culture.

Part of the mission of The Journal of Literacy and Technology is to open new spheres of academic conversation, with the goal of making ideologies and assumptions apparent and considering possibilities and alternatives.

The Journal of Literacy and Technology is hosted at Florida Atlantic University, and is part of EBSCO database and is indexed in the International Institute of Organized Research (I2OR) database.

FLORIDA ATLANTIC UNIVERSITY

 EBSCOhost

AREAS OF RESEARCH

- New Media, Social Media Communication Studies
- Digital Humanities
- Rhetoric, Technology & Literacy
- Multicultural Literacies
- Workplace Culture of Technology
- Distance and/or Virtual Work and Communication Competence
- Gaming, Education and Literacy
- Web Research and Theory
- New Library Studies
- Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Technology
- International Studies on E-learning

Editor: Dr. Noemi Marin, Ph.D.
nmarin@fau.edu

The Journal of Literacy and Technology is an online, peer-reviewed international academic journal exploring the complex relationships between literacy and technology in educational, public, workplace, and individual spheres. The Journal of Literacy and Technology invites original academic scholarship, feature articles, and book reviews that overtly focus on complex relationships between literacy and technology, including, but not limited to, the areas listed above.

Submissions are accepted on an ongoing basis and three issues of the journal are published online per year. For submission information and author guidelines, visit the www.literacyandtechnology.org or contact the editor Dr. Noemi Marin, Ph.D. at nmarin@fau.edu or journalofliteracyandtechnology@gmail.com.
